Gifts and Hospitality Policy

1. Purpose

This policy sets rules for giving and accepting gifts and hospitality, so that business decisions are not influenced, or seen to be influenced, by personal benefits.

2. General principle

Employees must not accept any gift or hospitality that could influence, or appear to influence, a business decision.

3. Value thresholds for gifts received

Gifts with a value up to the equivalent of USD 50 may be accepted without approval.

Gifts valued between USD 50 and USD 200 must be recorded in the Gifts Register within 5 business days and approved by the employee's line manager.

Gifts valued above USD 200 must be politely declined. If declining is not possible, the gift must be handed to the Ethics Office.

4. Prohibited gifts

The following must never be accepted: cash or cash equivalents such as gift cards or vouchers; any gift from a supplier taking part in an active tender or procurement process; and any gift offered in exchange for a business favour.

5. Hospitality

Reasonable business meals and events with a clear business purpose may be accepted. Travel or accommodation paid for by a third party requires prior written approval from the Ethics Office.

6. Giving gifts to public officials

Gifts or hospitality must not be offered to public officials without prior written approval from Legal.

7. Breaches and reporting

Suspected breaches of this policy should be reported under POL-003 Raising a Concern. Gifts connected to a procurement decision may also create a conflict of interest under POL-001.
